Who's Looking at Who?

Burrowing owl

Bronze, 13 x 10 x 9

There are few birds more appealing and more possessed of personality than burrowing owls. I had some wonderful photos of them available, and had previously sculpted a pair of binoculars for a commission. So it was a natural to put the two subjects together into an amusing little sculpture—during which the rectangular base gradually evolved into a “Birder’s Journal.” Sometimes, one just has to have a little fun!
