

I visited Kenya a few years ago and stayed three days in the Masai Mara. It was June, and the Mara was literally a sea of tall grass, making it hard to spot lions. Luckily our guide found a small group of females with young of various ages, relaxing in the shade of a "lion bush" as it is named locally, recognizable by its occasional orange leaf.

PATRICIA PEPIN, SAA

Resides: Bromont,
Quebec, Canada
b. 1964, Quebec, Canada

Mara Baby
Lion
Oil on linen
24 x 30